

Crispleaf Buckwheat Cinder Shrubland (15)

Location. This map class is limited in distribution to cinder-covered slopes and flats between the northern and eastern rims of Woodhouse Mesa and the Visitor's Center. It generally occurs in small polygons, although larger stands occur on cinder slopes above the Visitor's Center.

Photosignature. The best-developed examples appear as greenish black areas with evenly distributed, tiny white dots representing the shrubs. Larger white dots generally are rabbitbrush, orange speckles are generally Apache plume.
